

IFP Research Awards: Call for Nominations – Mid-Career Research Award

This is a call for the next IFP research award. IFP Research Awards intend to further a broad spectrum of psychotherapy research that is in line with the general goal of the IFP. Special weight is given to studies emphasizing cultural issues, psychotherapy delivery, clinical excellence, and training.

The IFP Research Committee accepts nominations for the following three awards:

- 1 Young researchers at the level of a completed dissertation
- 2 Mid-career researchers who have already delivered important research beyond the dissertation level
- 3 Distinguished researchers for lifetime achievements

The categories for nomination rotate every 2 years. For the next year, nominations for the Mid-Career Researcher Award are invited. Nominees will typically have gained their PhD 15–25 years previously but the Committee need not adhere to these limits.

Nominations can be made by member associations represented by their officials, by individuals who are members of IFP member organizations, and by individual IFP members.

A nomination must include: (1) a completed nomination form (available on the IFP homepage <http://www.ifp.name/>), (2) a letter of recommendation by the nominating person/association, (3) a curriculum vitae as well as copies of the material (publications) on which the decision is expected to be based, and (4) a document written by the nominee summarizing his/her work and explaining how it is related to the aims of IFP. All documents should preferably be sent electronically to the IFP President (or to the Awards Committee Chair).

Additional letters of recommendation may be included or submitted separately, also by colleagues not fulfilling the criteria which apply to the primary nominator.

The deadline for nomination is September 1, 2015.

The decision will be made by the IFP Research Committee and the award will be announced at the 2018 International Meeting.

There are several ways in which you can assist us with selecting the best candidates:

- 1 Distribute the information via your professional listserv
- 2 Post the information on your professional website
- 3 Send out this email to your colleagues
- 4 Nominate researchers for each award category

For questions, please contact iwakabe.shigeru@ocha.ac.jp.